

Transition Brainstorming List - Draft

Assumptions	Strategies	Product (Outcome)
Transition requires collaboration: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Family • Young Adult • Pediatrician • Adult Oriented Physician 	Identify the best models for transition and provide resources, tools, education targeting one or more of these groups	Description of comprehensive model and promotion
Transition must start early	Develop guidelines for younger kids	Transition planning guide for children 8-12
Adult oriented providers are unprepared to participate effectively and currently very few resources exist	Educate adult oriented providers	Materials, tools, and recommendations targeting adult oriented providers
Young adults should have an active role in transition planning	Young adults who are further along in transition mentoring other young adults	Streaming videos or other technology familiar to young adult age group
Successful transition requires planning in advance	Identify guidelines for creating a transition plan	Transition planning guide
It can be difficult to find an appropriate adult oriented healthcare provider	Locate physicians that are willing to take these patients and have experience	Establish a list of physicians in each state in our region
Transition may look very different from condition to condition	Identify condition specific resources	Materials targeting specific groups
Education and or career training may be affected by genetic condition and should be addressed in the transition planning process (Ex: ADA)
Transition to adult health care should address financial independence and insurance issues		